Applications are invited for one stipendiary Isaac Newton Trust Rutherford Research Fellowship in Business & Management; Divinity; Economics; History & Philosophy of Science; Human, Social and Political Sciences (including Archaeology, Social Anthropology, POLIS, Sociology); Land Economy; Law; or Philosophy.

This Early Career Research Fellowship will normally be tenable for three years from 1 October 2021.

The 2020-21 pensionable rates are: Pre-PhD £19,612 - £22,417, post PhD £21,236 - £23,754 Rent-free single accommodation will be offered in College (a taxable benefit), with a charge to cover services, or an additional allowance will be provided, which is currently £3,469 for any Research Fellow not resident in College.

The prime duty of a Research Fellow is to pursue research, and a report on the progress of that research will be required each year. The Research Fellow will become a member of the Governing Body of the College, with joint responsibility for its governance. Research Fellows are frequently invited, but not obligated, to undertake (for an additional payment) up to four hours of small group teaching per week.

Fitzwilliam is part of a group of Colleges operating a Joint Application Scheme for Early Career Research Fellowships. A total of three Fellowships are being offered in this cycle, at Fitzwilliam and Trinity Hall, but candidates are advised that competition is likely to be intense; last year over 1000 applications were received.

Candidates are warned that they are responsible for checking their eligibility to take up the post under UK immigration rules.

Full information regarding the Fellowships on offer, further particulars and registration details will be available at the Joint Application Scheme website on 9 October 2020:
